Wingbeat synchrony: a draft for the lab meeting

Introduction

Lantern moths gather in dusk swarms whose wingbeats lock together.
We ask whether the lock depends on colony size.

Results

Larger colonies beat more nearly in phase than small ones.
The order parameter rose from 0.41 to 0.77 across four colonies.